

HOME AT LAST IS HENRY HORSELY, A HOMELESS MAN

Anywhere He Hung His Hat
Was Home to Him on
This Earth.

Cared Only for Creature Comfort and Was Resigned

RELATIVES ARE IN ENGLAND.

Henry Horsely has gone home. He died at the Illinois Central hospital this morning at 12:15 o'clock from injuries sustained when the scaffolding of the Cumberland river bridge of the Illinois Central collapsed on June 8.

When he entered the hospital on a stretcher brought from head to foot and the lower part of his body paralyzed, he was contented smoking his short clay pipe, and in answer to inquiries he replied: "Anywhere I hang my hat, is home, sweet home to me."

That was the extent of the information he vouchsafed, save that his mother resides somewhere in England.

His first concern on being picked up was for a smoke, and his first request on being placed in bed, was to be left alone. He was left alone, and he died.

His splendid physique kept him alive long after the average man would have died.

Little is known about the life of Horsely, as he declined to talk about his life or relatives, even after being informed that death was a question of only a few days. He stated that England was his home, but he came to America when 15 years old and had heard nothing from his relatives in over 20 years, and did not know their address. Yesterday while irrational at periods he stated that Horsely was not his real name, but later repudiated it.

His body was taken to the morgue of Nance & Rogers this morning, where it will be held until relatives are located or the funeral arrangements completed.

Asphyxiation Kills Penn.

Stricken with apoplexy, Shadrack B. Penn, a prominent politician of Ballard county, and city attorney of Henderson died suddenly here at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of Sallie Sands, 323 Washington street. He was 68 years old.

When Penn dropped on the bed the Sands woman ran into the yard screaming, and before a physician could be called Penn had died. An inquest held at 10 o'clock this morning by Acting Coroner Charles W. Emory revealed the cause of his death.

According to his son, Charles, Mr. Penn was in the best of health and had not been heard to complain. He left the home of his daughter, Mrs. Henny Hook at Kevil, where he lived about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon presumably for Henderson and was seen walking along Washington street about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Going to the home of Sallie Sands he is said to have roared and fallen over dead on the bed without warning. Medical aid came too late. The body was removed to the undertaking parlors of Mattil, Blinger & Roth on South Third street and relatives were notified. They arrived this morning, taking the body to Kevil following the inquest.

Mr. Penn was born in Todd county in 1812 and for many years had resided in Ballard county. He was a prosperous farmer and a widely known lawyer and was city attorney at Henderson. He was very active in politics and familiarly known as "Boots" Penn. Mr. Penn had been married three times, his last wife having died about three years ago. He had resided with his daughter since her death.

He leaves two sons, Messrs. Robert and Charles Penn, and one daughter, Mrs. Bonny Hook. He leaves one brother, Henny Penn, of Fort Smith, Ark. Messrs. Clark, Richard, Roscoe and Tom Penn, of this city, are nephews.

The funeral will be held at 5 o'clock this afternoon and burial will be in the Terrell private burying ground near Kevil.

Two More Entries.

Two more entries may enter the Killy league for the second half of the season. McLennanboro and Harrisburg, Ill. have applied for admission, and it is the general opinion that they will be accepted.

Brandenburg Said He Forged Check to Provide Necessities For Wife, Who Was Once an Eddyville Belle

Author of Famous Forged
Cleveland Letter, Which Deceived New York Times,
Returns to Tombs.

New York, July 14.—(Special)—Throughton Brandenburg, the writer, who has been in hot water several times before, is at his old tricks. He was arrested last night for forging a check for $50. He got a friend at the Press club to cash the check for him and when the exposure came he pleaded for mercy, saying he had been deceiving his wife as to his income and needed money to pay vital expenses. He was locked up in the police station and photographed for the "Hogues" gallery. He was bed today and sent to the Tombs, where he spent several months last year.

Brandenburg, who is the son of a minister in Ohio, once was accused of kidnapping his little step-son, Shepard Catman, from St. Louis, and later was charged with forging Grover Cleveland's name to an alleged article which he sold, after Cleveland died.

His present wife before her first marriage was Miss Minnie Leonard, of Eddyville, sister Mrs. Wheeler Campbell, formerly of Paducah, and now of Louisville.

Cutting at Socialists.

Seidalla, Ky., July 14 (Special).—As the result of a quarrel between Will Morris, a young farmer of this section, and Clayton Bowden, a cropper, Morris is lying at his home in a critical condition from a stab wound, and Bowden is out on bond, charged with cutting with intent to kill. His preliminary trial is set for July 27. They quarreled over the crops and Bowden stabbed Morris with a pocket knife. Both men are married.

PACKERS WILL BE HELD PERSONALLY

FEDERAL GRAND JURY WILL IN-DICT INDIVIDUALS, NO CORPORATIONS.

Chicago, July 14.—"Don't indict a mere alias, or corporation, when an individual is responsible. Follow the trail of real offenders," was Judge Landis' statement today to the grand jury to investigate the meat packers' trust. It carried out the plan to force the indictment of individuals instead of corporations. Government attorneys are pleased with the court's instructions. The investigation will be thorough. A hundred lawyers for the government and trust heard the charge read. Assistant United States District Attorney General Kenyon stated that he will remain to aid the prosecution in the investigation. The jury was drawn and after instructions was dismissed until tomorrow. The court cautioned the jurors against "influence of the argument heard that law enforcement will smother the business. No legitimate business needs the government acquiescence in the commission of crime."

Million Dollar Fire At Portland Oregon

Portland, Ore., July 14.—Seven blocks in business and apartment buildings were burned early today. It is estimated it cost a million dollar damage. Reports of loss of life are confirmed. The cause is unknown and originated in the old exposition building and spread to a row of apartment houses, the "Mullinoh" Athletic club and automobile row. The Studebaker Auto company was first destroyed. Two hundred horses in the exposition building burned and men, sleeping

LONDON MURDER MYSTERY EQUALS COMO LAKE CASE

American Dentist Hacks Wife
to Pieces, and Runs Away
With Stenographer.

Disappearance of Famous Singer.

BODY CAN'T BE IDENTIFIED.

London, July 14.—Two coffins were taken today to the home of Dr. Hawley Crippen, the American dentist, on Hilldrop Crescent, indicating that another corpse was found in the house, besides the one unearthed in the cellar last night. Police claim it is that of Mrs. Crippen, nee Belle Elmore, the noted singer.

All persons are barred from the premises and the police are vetting their movements. Crippen is charged with murder. Crippen is said to have fled with another woman, representing herself as his wife. None of the neighbors have seen Mrs. Crippen since February, when Crippen announced she had gone to America.

Shortly afterward her death was announced through the papers.

The dead woman, if really Mrs. Crippen, was famous. She was born in Philadelphia and the daughter of a noble Polish family. Her mother and father, it is understood, hid her identity from the girl. Later she discovered it and went to Europe to seek the estate. Police have notified authorities of the world to seek for Crippen and Ethel Cara Leneve, his stenographer.

Neighbors became suspicious and notified the police when they discovered no death had occurred in the place as the advertisement stated. Scotland Yard men questioned Crippen, who then was living with the second Mrs. Crippen. The doctor answered questions and continued to live in the house.

Saturday he disappeared. The police searched the premises, and nearly tore down the garden house. A letter, which Mrs. Crippen's secretary received, was obviously forged. The letter was received in February from her, saying she was going to America.

Police say Dr. Crippen practiced in various parts of the United States as a Munyon representative. It is certain he and Miss Leneve left Saturday. He told the police on their last visit the story that his wife was in America was untrue. He said they quarreled. He invented the story so neighbors would not know she left him. Two caskets were taken to the house to facilitate the handling of the frightfully mutilated body. Positive identification is impossible.

Dr. Pepper examined the body and declared the body unrecognizable before decomposition, on account of blows. It was hacked and jabbed as though with a knife. Officials of the Music Hall Ladies' guild were astonished when Mrs. Crippen left without an explanation. All knew there was trouble in the family over the stenographer. They wrote to Mr. Stephens in California. He replied that she had never been there. The wife requested the dismissal of the stenographer, but was refused.

London police are confident that before night they will arrest Crippen. Evening News declared it furnished the clew to his whereabouts. According to the News the porter of Raven house, Kinsway, where Crippen had an office, states that Crippen passed him today into the office. He left toward Euston. Police are on the trail.

Odesa, July 14.—Official reports today place the death toll at 406 as the result of the collision Saturday night between ships Lovki and Wampa near Kherson, the entrance to the Black sea. The boilers of the Lovki exploded, and the vessel sank with nearly all on board.

Another Warrant Issued in Pool Road Murder Mystery Case and New Clew Urged by Lawyers

Race Horse Man at Murphysboro, Ill., Charged With Killing the Unknown Red
Headed Youth April 10.

Yet another warrant has been issued on an entirely new hypothesis in the Pool road murder mystery case, and word was received by The Evening Sun today from Mr. H. V. Keebler that he has found the man he wants in jail at Murphysboro, Ill., where he is held on a charge of robbery.

The man is John Hunt, sometimes known as Wilson, of Metropolis, Ill., a race track follower. A warrant for his arrest was issued several days ago by County Judge Alben Barkley upon the affidavit of Keebler, who said he saw and talked with the murdered boy and Hunt a few days before the murder. Both talked about race horses, and while Hunt was washing his linen near the basket, the murdered boy sat on a log and asked Keebler if he had ever been to Metropolis, and if he knew John Hunt.

Keebler replied that he had several years ago, but probably would not know him now. He said the youth looked toward the form by the water side and chuckled, but Keebler thought nothing of it, until after the murder and he identified the body as that of the youth with whom he talked.

Hunt, he reports, is the fellow he saw with the murdered boy that day he speaks of, and he will attempt to secure possession of Hunt from the Murphysboro authorities.

Keebler makes affidavit to the identity of the men with great particularity. He is a carpenter and has all along insisted that he talked with the murdered boy and would know his companion if he set eyes on him. Several weeks ago on the information that Hunt knew something of the case, The Evening Sun communicated with him, but received the brief reply that Hunt knew nothing. He was then following races in Illinois.

Attorney David Browning, who represented the boys arrested when Mrs. Thompson identified the body as that of her son Luther, and who now is representing Tom Farrin, who confessed to the murder, it is said, and then denied his confession, is active in running down this clew, and says he is confident now that he will not only establish the innocence of Farrin and Guy Dean, but bring the proper party to trial for the crime.

The identity of the murdered youth is not concerning him, except incidentally, he says, though he believes that will be established. Following the clew, outlined in The Evening Sun several days ago, Evansville detectives made inquiries concerning the dead boy. They thought he might have been a red headed race track follower who worked in a barber shop in Evansville while, before coming down the river prior to the killing. The fact that the murdered boy is claimed by Keebler to have talked about racing, and his companion was a race track man, adds color to the Evansville theory.

Other Witnesses.
Much hinges on the identification of the prisoner by Abe Beauregard and Henry Dunlap, colored, witnesses, who testified that they saw the red-headed boy and a low built, heavy set companion out near the place of the murder on more than one day before the body was found. They stated positively at the pre-

TO SUSPEND ALL RATE INCREASES TILL GIVEN TIME

Interstate Commerce Commission Announces Its Policy.

Report That Southern Roads
Make Advance.

ALL ARE EFFECTIVE AT ONCE.

Washington, July 14.—The Interstate commerce commission announced its intention to suspend all tariff making in general and important freight rate advances, pending investigation of the reasonableness of advances. It is expected the suspension in each case will be 120 days from effective date named in the tariffs. The commission intends by subsequent orders to provide advance rates finally allowed. The decision affects rates postponed after the conference of railroad presidents and the president.

This action established the milestone of the industrial history of the country. For the first time the commission made use of the power to suspend rates given it by the new railroad law. It affects practically every railroad system in the country, except those of the southeast. It means the suspension of 11,000 tariffs.

New Orleans, July 14.—Reports here say that southern and southwestern railroads will advance freight rates. It is said when Commissioner of Labor Neill arbitrated the differences between the railroads and employees it was agreed the roads would advance rates, having granted higher wages.

ALL OFFERINGS SOLD BY ASSOCIATION TODAY

What was considered the best sale of the season was made this morning at the western district warehouse when the entire offering of 225 hogs, heads of tobacco, owned by the Planters' Protective association, was sold. The sale was conducted by W. M. Farmer, local salesman, and M. M. Tucker, warehouseman. The prices were: Leaf, 8 1/4 to 13 1/2 cents; lugs, 6 to 9 cents. It was a high top market to pick from and many local and foreign buyers were on hand. The last sale, in which the association intends to dispose of the entire crop, will be held two weeks hence. The association has established a record this year for the number of large sales and the rapid disposition of the crop.

GOV. SHUT OUT

FRANKFORT JAILER REFUSES TO LET NEGROES MEET.

Governor Wilson and Mayor Polsgrove
Were to Address
Them.

Frankfort, Ky., July 14.—Governor Wilson and Mayor Polsgrove and 200 negro citizens were refused the use of the court house last night by Jailer Mace Lucas, its custodian, for a public meeting to be held under the auspices of the district grand lodge of Odd Fellows (colored) in Kentucky. Governor Wilson and Mayor Polsgrove were on the program to deliver addresses of welcome to the visiting delegates, and the speeches were scheduled to be made at the newly remodeled court house.

When Governor Wilson and Mayor Polsgrove drove up in a carriage they found the court house dark, and delegates standing on the outside. They requested admittance, Jailer Lucas said to Governor Wilson:

"Governor, if you enter the court house for this speech making, you will do it against my protest, and you will have to batter down the doors."

Seeing that it was useless to try to persuade Jailer Lucas to let them have the court house Governor Wilson and Mayor Polsgrove went to a colored A. M. E. church, where they addressed the delegates.

Governor Wilson and Mayor Polsgrove were inclined to take their rebuff good-naturedly.

THE GREAT NORTH COUNTRY.
Those Indians who made the first canoe of birch bark long ago, were our greatest benefactors. The children of these Indians know the canoe and they know how to use it, and if you go to Temagami, Ontario, this summer they will paddle your canoe in their own superb way. Students who camp in summer along the Temagami lakes are able to do two years' work in one. Finest of fishing and hunting. Easy of access by the Grand Trunk Railway System. KENTUCKY ROADS.

Has 57,137 Miles of Public Roads
Only 9,486 Improved.

According to a pamphlet issued by the secretary of agriculture, Kentucky has 57,137 miles of public roads. Of this number, 1,408 miles are surfaced with gravel and 8,078 with stone, making in all 9,486 miles of improved roads. Many of these have been built and maintained by turnpike companies, while others have been constructed by counties from funds raised on bond issues. It will be seen that 16 percent of the roads have been improved. By comparing the total road mileage with the area of the state, it appears that there was 1.4 miles of public road to every square mile area. A comparison of mileage with population shows that there was one mile of road to every 37 inhabitants, and one mile of improved road to every 265 inhabitants.

A combination of tough luck, a few errors and the failure to collide with the ball at the proper moments resulted in the Indians dropping the first game of the series to Hopkinsville yesterday afternoon by a score of 2 to 1. Several times the Indians got runners on the sacks and it looked favorable that they might win out as the Moguls failed to score after the first inning. However, the locals were unable to put but one score over the pan and that was with the assistance of errors, and in the ninth inning batting failed and Floyd struck out with Overton waiting on third for a semblance of a hit in order to score.

"Tuba" Floyd was in the box for the Indians and he twirled a good game. In the opening inning two errors, and a scratch hit and a hit by Mercer, the cutoff by Paducah, resulted in two runs. Floyd got into some deep holes and it looked gloomy but he always pulled out after the first inning. He had steam yesterday and had nine strike-outs to his credit, while he was touched up for seven hits. Opposed to him was Otter, a young pitcher who is receiving a try-out by the Hoppers. He pitched the best kind of ball for the visitors, and allowed the Indians only four hits, although good fielding behind him killed several apparently safe runs. Otter is cool, steady and has a good assortment of curves combined with good speed.

The visitors started off with a jump, and scored two runs before the fans realized that the game had started. Lyons was first up and reached first on a single by Block. Murray laid one down to Floyd and beat it out, resulting in two runners being on the sacks. Brown was safe when Floyd tossed the ball to first base and nobody was there. Lyons counted. Smith and Russell struck out, but Mercer drove a single out to center field, and Mercer scored. Flanagan went out Anders, Floyd to Cox, and the game was won. In the second two runners were on the bases but Floyd with splendid fielding behind him pulled out unharmed. Cranor was first up and was walked. Otter was given life at first by a low throw of Payne to Block, who covered first base. Lyons swung one between first and second, but Block made a quick run and got the grounder, retiring the runner at first. Murray was next up and flew out to Block. Brown was first up in the third, and singled to center. He was tagged a minute later when he tried to steal second, by a pretty throw from Overton to Block. Smith and Russell flew out to Angermeyer, who made two pretty running catches.

The Night Riders looked threatening in the fifth, and Paducah was in the worst hole of the day. Murray started off by singling to center. Brown followed with a hot grounder into left. Smith laid one down to Cox, who forced out Murray at third. Woodring made a pretty catch of Russell's fly, while Mercer struck out. During the sixth inning and seventh inning Hopkinsville went down in order. In the eighth after Smith struck out, Russell singled and Mercer was given a walk. They died on base as Flanagan struck out and Cranor went out Floyd to Cox.

The game was close with a neat play entangling Lyons between first and second. Lyons was given a walk, and Murray struck out. Overton snapped the ball to Cox after the third strike and Lyons was off the sack. By tossing the ball from Cox to Block he was caught by Block.

For Paducah the first three innings the batters were up and down and nothing like a hit was secured. In the fourth after Anderson flew out to Russell and Lockhart struck out, Block drove out a pretty single to left field. Cox followed with a single to center. With Block on third and Cox on second, Overton struck out and the chances were ended. The only run of the game for the locals was scored in the fifth. Payne went out Otter to Brown, while Woodring flew out to Flanagan who made the prettiest kind of run after the ball. Floyd was given life at first when Flanagan threw wide to Brown. In an attempt to head off the "Rube" at second another wild throw was made and the lengthy pitcher trotted to third on errors. Angermeyer hit one to Smith, who made a wild toss, and Floyd scored. In the sixth the batters went down quickly. Cox was first up in the seventh and drove a beauty to right. It was a fly and Murray killed a hit by running against the fence, but he dropped the ball. Overton pulled off a neat sacrifice. Payne followed at bat and was safe on a juggle of a grounder by Smith. Woodring fouled several and was given a pass, filling the bases. Floyd struck out, and the best Manager Angermeyer could do was to ground to Mercer, who forced out Floyd at second. In the eighth Block got a blazing grounder through short, but Anderson, Lockhart and Cox were easy outs, and the utility man died on base.

After great expectations the Indians died on the sacks in the ninth. Overton was first up and banged out a hit through short. Payne struck out, but Cranor dropped the ball and retired the runner at first, while Overton was advanced to second. Woodring responded with a neat sacrifice, putting the little catcher on base. Floyd fouled several and then struck out, ending the game.

Innate Talk.
Block played a good game at second base yesterday. In the first inning he juggled the ball once, but made up for it in the remainder of the game by pretty work. In the second he made a neat stop of a hard chance between first and second. Incidentally he rapped out two good singles.
Manager Angermeyer pulled off several sensational running catches yesterday. He got them by hard runs either back to the fence or close in to the infield.
Flanagan made the prettiest kind of running catch in the fifth inning off Woodring's bat. Some thought he dropped the ball, but he tossed it backwards after catching it.

Both umpires, Lucas and Bulger, worked yesterday. Lucas was behind the bat while Bulger umpired on the bases.

Anderson was robbed of a two bagger in the sixth by a pretty catch by Lyons after a long, hard run.
Little Mercer was given applause every time he stepped to the plate. Besides playing a good game on second, his hit in the first inning won the game for the visitors. If he keeps up his standard of playing demonstrated yesterday it looks like he will remain.

Murray made a hard try to get Cox's fly in the seventh. He got his hands on the sphere but collided with the fence and dropped the ball.

RATE ADVANCES ARE SUSPENDED

THE INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION ACT.

Western Trunk Line and Carries in Eastern Territory Had Filed Increases.

EFFECT AUGUST 1, AS AGREED.

Washington, July 14.—The interstate commerce commission determined to suspend the recent general advances made by the railways in freight tariffs. The advanced rates were suspended, for the most part, were those recently filed by the Western Trunk Line association and by carriers in the eastern classification territory, although some are those of individual roads in other territories.

By arrangement with the president and the commission, the railways agreed to supplement the original advanced tariffs, effective about July 1, with tariffs to become effective August 1, for the purpose of enabling the commission to examine its authority under the new railroad law.

Now that the policy of the commission has been determined, it will be automatically applicable, in a sense to the tariffs as fall within its purview. In the multiplicity of freight tariffs filed with the commission averaging six or seven hundred per day—the commission will not exercise its authority to suspend except in certain instances, as it is manifest that the proposed new tariffs might do serious injustice to the shippers. Authority will be exercised only when extraordinary conditions, in the view of the commission, prevail.

MAN GETS NEW JAWBONE MADE OF SOLID GOLD

New York, July 14.—A man with a solid gold jawbone is convalescing at the Post Graduate Hospital in this city. He didn't acquire it as a fad, like diamonds in the teeth, nor is the patient, Michael Woods, a wealthy man who desires to take a large lump of the precious metal to the grave with him. The golden jawbone is the result of a curious and unprecedented operation, and Michael Woods is glad he has it, not because it is gold, but because it has saved his life.

Dr. Aspinwall Judd, visiting surgeon to the hospital, and Dr. Chas. Gordon Heyd conceived and executed the operation which made Woods jawbone auricular.

The man, who is more than 70 years old, was admitted to the hospital several months ago. A cancerous growth in his neck affected the bone of the lower jaw and ate away so much of it, on one side, that the bone was about to break in two. The case was so advanced that it appeared at first as though nothing could be done to prevent the break, which would have resulted in the patient's death.

Drs. Judd and Heyd made several examinations and decided that it would be possible to cut away the affected part, which was several inches in length, break the bone, which was necessary because of the state of the jaw, and then fill in the bridge across the cleft with a plate of gold.

It was not a dangerous operation, but it was most ingenious and required careful calculation and fitting before they manufactured the golden bone. But it was successful.

and now, after more than a week, the aged patient is able to chew his food as well as the ordinary mortal.

Foley's Kidney Pills Have Cured Me!
The above is a quotation from a letter written by H. M. Winkler, of Evansville, Ind. "I contracted a severe case of kidney trouble. My back gave out and pained me. I seemed to have lost all strength and ambition; was bothered with dizzy spells, my head would swim and necks that before my eyes. I took Foley's Kidney Pills regularly and am now perfectly well and feel like a new man. Foley's Kidney Pills have cured me." Gilbert's drug store.

It is contemplated to establish wireless telegraph stations in German East Africa, Togoland, Kamerun and German Southwest Africa, and also between the different South Sea colonies.

Foley's Kidney Remedy will cure any case of kidney and bladder trouble not beyond the reach of medicine. No medicine can do more. Gilbert's drug store.

RED LETTER SALE

Most Remarkable Clothing Event Ever Held in Paducah

IN announcing our first Red Letter Sale, we call attention to a sale that's different from any other clothing sale. Not alone are the reductions greater, but the merchandise offered is of a higher standard. The value of the goods is not considered in the radical reductions made—it's a question of turning them into cash. The backward season has left a large stock which must be quickly disposed of.

Daily Thought.

Whoever, amid the eons of reason, valor, liberty and virtue, displays distinguished merit, is a noble of nature's own creating.—Thomson.

It is serious when the horse and rider both are bilied.

A lot of folks have come over on the Lusitania, who would not have been allowed on the Mayflower.

A deaf and dumb negro was arrested at Newark, O., in connection with the lynching of the anti-slavery detective. Some blind officials up there also ought to be punished.

Hughes may be the apple of Roosevelt's political eye, but when he is listening to the ground, the collector of the port of New York seems to be the Loeb of his political ear.

At any rate, we know that in his letter to Madrid, of Nicaragua, the kaiser was acting under the direction of the German foreign office and not just shooting off his mouth at random.

Two youths stealing a ride in a car of brick, awoke inside the walls of a penitentiary, to which the car was consigned. Those, who never stole a ride on a train in their lives will be quick to perceive such is the ultimate destination of boys, who "go bunning." Those of us, who have done so ourselves, can appreciate the shock it gave the boys when they found out where they were.

Never question the motives of a virtuous act. Remember the roots of the whitest lily are imbedded in the muck. The sheriff of Licking county, Ohio, resigned, more or less voluntarily. He is the first sheriff, whose prisoner was lynched, so far as we know, that ever had the decency to retire from the office he disgraced, even when it was intimated that his retirement would be wholly in accord with prevailing public sentiment.

DR. WILEY AND THE KISS.

What's in a kiss?

We have a right to know. The mere alliterative made by Dr. Wiley, chief of the bureau of chemistry, that "kissing is worse than cursing" is not sufficient. The scriptures say, "not that which goeth into the mouth defileth man; but that which cometh out of the mouth."

And then, so indiscriminate condemnation is unfair to the ancient and honorable practice. Dr. Wiley is not a social expert; it is not the insincerity and impossibility of enforcing its bond as the seal of mutual obligation to which he objects. He is a chemist and may speak with authority only as to such matters as come within the scope of his own department of science. He condemned the use of formaldehyde in milk, blending compounds in straight whiskey and benzene of soda in preservatives; what element of mischief is there in kissing to which he objects and which we may have removed without detracting from the pleasant effect of the indulgence? He must speak.

A New York dentist has just been

UNION RESCUE MISSION

After a week's stay at the Union Rescue mission I feel disposed to tell the public something of the work as I have observed it. Especially since I solicited donations one day, and found the people almost wholly ignorant of the real work done here. The first night I was here two young men in search of work, came in during a stormy rain. As they were without means they were given meals and lodging, and in the morning some clean shirts. These men were talked to about their spiritual condition, and after prayer promised to obtain good employment at once and are doing well. One other young man has been cured for over night and is seeking work. There have been two young mothers with children here seeking help. A home has been found for one child, and the mother a place to work. The other mother will be given work as soon as a home for her month-old baby is found. One woman was cured for over Sunday, and work procured for her. Three girls have found shelter and work. People have come for clothes, in one instance a man came and asked for pants that he might go to church. Mrs. Childs had to say "come again," as no donations of that kind had been sent in lately. The hospital charity ward has been visited almost every day, and fruit and flowers carried. The jail and almshouse and many homes in distress have all been visited, and good literature left. And between times these good people have been answering the telephone calls of the housekeepers in the city, needing girls for nurses or cooks. No one on the outside can possibly know of the amount of work being done. This is undoubtedly a labor of love as the people are either negligent or indifferent. The mission is in debt and as the collections get smaller instead of increasing, the work must suffer more and more. I take this means of acquainting the people of it, and do so without any solicitation, believing that if the good people of Paducah only knew they would gladly come to the rescue. I believe every home owner in the city (and many who do not own homes), could, without any sacrifice, telephone their grocer to deliver as much as a 25c package at the missions. Also many people could give bundles of clothing, which Mr. Childs would be glad to call for and distribute. This is not a work that many people enjoy, and yet many good people are willing to help. Brother Childs and wife are willing to do this work for you if you will make it possible. The religious services are good. A man and wife have found Christ this week, three have been reclaimed and quite a number admonished and prayed with. I am persuaded that none of us will regret the cups of cold water given when we see the Master face to face, but we will rather wish we had done a thousand fold more. Don't lay this paper aside and think that so many will respond that you will wait until "next time," for many others will do that too, but "phone Bro. Childs and help him in this real time of need. God has promised that, "He that giveth to the poor lendeth to the Lord, and that which he hath given He will repay again." This is a good bank note, try it.

Sincerely in the interest of earth's bruised, fallen and helpless.

MRS. J. A. LEE

sued for kissing a pretty patient as she sat in his operating chair. He might enlighten us. He had seen inside her mouth and probably had cleaned her teeth. If he kissed her first, she had a right to accept the kiss as an evidence of approval and resist his charge for dental work, on the ground that she needed none. If he rushed to it heedlessly, he did so at his own peril, and the chief chemist of the nation is under no obligation to worry over the penalties nature imposes on the receivers of stolen kisses.

How can one judge these things? And, if his judgment be debased, as is often pleaded in defense of the accusation of unlawful trespass and theft under the spell of the moon, how is one to be protected against a momentary, irresistible impulse? All men are susceptible. There is no antidote and they cannot all be confined in institutions for the restraint of the suddenly inclined? Must we muzzle all the pretty women?

Tell us, Dr. Wiley. It is up to you. For some men would rather risk the unknown physical ills that linger latent behind the Cupid's bow of a woman's mouth, than suffer the slow torment of passion's fever for attainable but unrealized bliss.

Policeman Coffey, of Mayfield, accompanied the excursion from that point to Louisville to keep order. It is the custom at Mayfield to take an officer along on excursions to keep order, but they do not always take Coffey.

In the Second district the Democratic candidate for the appellate bench is Settle. The Republican candidate probably will be Jolly. Two good names for candidates and judges. Sorry they both can't be elected.

FOUNDING A WARNING.

In our changing social conditions the percentage of true women still greatly exceeds the percentage of clean lived men; but, the fact can not be without its significance, that while men are gradually being held to a higher standard of life, the restraint on women is as surely relaxing.

The Baltimore Sun raises a warning voice, that should not go unheeded: "Whenever a woman starts to smoke, whenever she begins to drink, even in moderation, she puts her feet in a dangerous path. To preserve purity of life and thought so save womanhood, every bit of protection, every safeguard is needed. It will be a sad day when dignity, modesty, purity of thought and language are no longer expected of women. Laxity of expression and conduct are all too closely associated with loose morals."

SPORT THAT KILLS.

The conquest of the air promises to cost as many lives as the discovery of the North pole, for decades considered the greatest fool killer of the age. Since April ten have added their names to the roll of victims. They, in a way, have given their lives for the benefit of science; yet, most of them are of the dare-devil type, chiefly remarkable for daring and sensational achievements, and their deaths came in attempts to win prizes and large sums for breaking speed and distance records.

The Arctic sea claimed its score of adventurers; but a Peary conquered it, not alone by boldness, but by courage, patience and studied persistence. Peary was as bold as the boldest; yet, he did not risk his life unnecessarily, and each defeat taught him a lesson. His next attempt witnessed the correction of the defect, which prevented the success of his preceding expedition. Thus for twenty years he tried and failed, and pushed on until he reached the goal.

The Wright brothers are still alive. They studied aviation and gave to the world the principle upon which successful aeroplanes are manipulated. They dared before the others flew, and their boldness is unquestioned; for they had no throngs to cheer their achievements, and no competition to stimulate them to foolhardy flights.

They risked no more than was necessary, but assumed what risks could not be avoided in achieving success, and they have warned initiators of the dangers. Particularly did they emphasize the extreme hazard of the dirigible balloon, which in two disasters has equalled the record of all the aeroplanes.

The Wright brothers and Peary are brave, level-headed pioneers. In their respective fields, as much to be respected for their good sense as for their daring. No one of these, who have been killed in the aerial sports, as far as we have learned, has added a scientific fact to the sum, which the Wright brothers gave to the world.

STATE PRESS.

Naughty, Naughty, Laughing Water. Near the shadow of the pilot oak a voluptuous stream of water rushed from the other portion of a huge hill and, naturally, this became a watering place for the boat of the plains, a rendezvous of roving Indian bands, and a camping place of pioneer explorers.—Pilot Oak Corner, Mayfield Messenger.

Oppose Commission Plan.

The first definite action to be taken in Lexington to oppose the adoption of the commission form of government, which is to be voted on by the voters of Lexington in the November election, was made known yesterday afternoon, when it was announced that at a meeting to be held in the court house Friday night at 8 o'clock, City Clerk J. E. Cassaday, Hon. W. C. G. Hobbs and Attorney Charles Fennell would speak in opposition to the new plan. So far, they are the only speakers slated for the meeting, but it is expected that one or two more will be on the program before the meeting is called. The anti-commission men claim that the proposed plan of Lexington is very much unlike the Des Moines plan, and that the commission plan is not adapted to the government of Lexington. The meeting will be held in the circuit court room and every one in the city interested in the new government is requested to attend.—Lexington Herald.

The Completed Circle.

There is something amusing and at the same time pitiable in the efforts being made by the Republican press of the machine brand to show that Col. Roosevelt and President Taft are in complete accord with each other. That Col. Roosevelt and President Taft are on sincerely friendly terms no one will question. They are both high-grade men, each having shown ability, on many occasions, to recognize and applaud good qualities in others.

WHAT AVIATION COSTS.

The death toll due to aviation accidents in recent years follows:

September 17.—Lieut. Thomas E. Selfridge, U. S. A., killed in fall with Orville Wright, near Washington.
1909.
September 7.—Ross I. Eua, Italian, killed in home in machine of his own invention.
September 7.—E. Lefebvre, killed in Wright machine at Jussey-Sur-Orge, France.
September 22.—Capt. Louis F. Fober, killed at Boulogne, France.
December 6.—Fernandez Antonio, Spaniard, killed at Nice; falling 1,000 feet after motor exploded.
1910.
January 4.—Leon Delagrang, killed at Bordeaux, France.
April 2.—Lebelon Herbert, instantly killed; falling on rocks at San Sebastian, Spain.
May 13.—Chonvette Michel, killed at Lyons, France.
June 17.—Eugene Speyer, killed at San Francisco.
June 18.—Robt. killed at Stettin, Germany.
July 11.—Charles Wechter, killed at Rheims, in Antonette monoplane. Baroness De La Roche was almost killed by a fall in her Voisin biplane at the Rheims meeting on July 8.
July 12.—Capt. Charles Rolls, killed at Bourne-mouth, Eng., when his aeroplane collapsed and fell 100 feet.
July 13.—Oscar Brischol and four companions killed in bursting of their dirigible balloon at Leichlingen, Prussia.

Nevertheless there is every indication that the men are of different temperaments.—Henderson Gleason

Chicago, July 14.—Following a conference between President J. T. Farahan, of the Illinois Central, who has just returned from Europe, Special Attorney Murray Nelson, Vice President W. L. Park and Edward

Lee, the rumor spread that more for men officials of the Illinois Central are to be drawn into the graft net soon. Although none of the officials would admit the truth of the rumor, neither would they deny that the names of other men who were recent ly prominently connected with the company soon will be made parties to the bill for an accounting.

Ordinary bearing that Farrin and Dean were neither use the companion of the dead boy. If they identify Hunt as the companion, attorneys for the boys under arrest feel that they will have taken a long step in corroboration of Keebler's opinion.

Attorney Browning said before he took the case, he did not believe Tom Farrin's confession amounted to anything. If Farrin and Dean killed the boy, he said, the two women, at whose house they were stopping, knew all about the particulars. Farrin, he contends, was losing his hold on his sweetheart and in a spirit of bravado he told her he killed a man to get rid of him, and told what he said. The clothes of the dead boy have never been found, and the murderer or murderers cut the trade mark off the dead youth's neck tie something a couple of green boys would hardly be expected to do.

A Criminal Story.
If Hunt is the man and the Evansville theory proves correct, the murder will take on added interest, besides that brought into it by the mistaken identification of the victim by a mother; an arrest made on a fake confession, and the mysterious disappearance of the body.

The state's attorney is out of Murphyboro at present, but an effort will be made to have the Illinois officials turn Hunt over to the Paducah officers, and bring him back to Kentucky by securing requisition papers if necessary.

Attorney David Browning, who represents Guy Dean, now in the county jail awaiting the action of the grand jury for the murder of the boy, sent Keebler to Murphyboro to identify Hunt. Before going to Murphyboro, Keebler went to Vincennes, Covington and Jackson in search of Hunt.

Hunt is out on a parole from the state penitentiary at Joliet, Ill., and has also served a term in the Eddyville penitentiary. About ten years ago Hunt killed Joe Daniels. He was a young man then, and was not punished severely.

The Evansville authorities said the red-headed boy robbed the barber shop where he was working, and left the city in company with a low built, heavy set, dark haired man, and came down the river. Hunt has done time in Joliet and Eddyville. In the former for a murder committed at Metropolis. He stated this victim that time in the neck of the neck with a knife. It has been learned that in addition to the blows from a club, according to Attorney Browning, the victim of the Pool road murder had a knife stab in the neck, and the mark of the blade showed that the boy was lying down when he was stabbed, as the wielder of the knife must have been standing at his side, the knife extending across the neck instead of up and down, as it would have been had the blade been delivered from directly behind, while the victim was on his feet.

Hunt in Jail.

Hunt has been in jail at Murphyboro, Ill., since July 6, when he was arrested on the charge of robbery. Mr. Keebler said that he saw him in the jail and recognized him as the man he saw with the dead boy. Shortly after the murder Hunt went to Mt. Vernon, Ind., and Keebler learned that Hunt disposed of a pair of shoes there that answered the description of the shoes worn by the murdered boy.

The state's attorney is out of Murphyboro at present, but an effort will be made to have the Illinois officials turn Hunt over to the Paducah officers, and bring him back to Kentucky by securing requisition papers if necessary.

F. C. Haldree Arrested on Charge of False Swearing in the Case.

Accused of making a false affidavit before Magistrate J. J. Bleich, F. C. Haldree, of the Florence Station neighborhood, will undergo a second trial this week.

Haldree, a cripple, was fined $1 and costs Monday upon confession and making an affidavit that he struck Ivan Seltz, 17 years old, in self-defense. Since the trial, it is charged, it developed that Haldree used a plank instead of his fist. Ivan Seltz, who is the son of Andy Seltz, is in a precarious condition and has been bleeding from the nose and mouth since the assault.

It was alleged that Seltz threatened to whip Haldree, who turned of it and "prepared himself." The two met last Sunday on the public road and Haldree revived the threat. He said Seltz drew his hand in his hip pocket as if to get a gun, and he struck him.

Daily Thought.

Whoever, amid the eons of reason, valor, liberty and virtue, displays distinguished merit, is a noble of nature's own creating.—Thomson.

It is serious when the horse and rider both are blind.

A lot of folks have come over on the Lusitania, who would not have been allowed on the Mayflower.

A deaf and dumb negro was arrested at Newark, O., in connection with the lynching of the anti-saloon detective. Some blind officials there also ought to be punished.

Hughes may be the apple of Roosevelt's political eye, but when he is listening to the ground, the collector of the port of New York seems to be the Loeb of his political ear.

At any rate, we know that in his letter to Madrid, of Nicaragua, the kaiser was acting under the direction of the German foreign office and not just shooting off his mouth at random.

Two youths stealing a ride in a car of brick, awoke inside the walls of a penitentiary, to which the car was consigned. Those, who never stole a ride on a train in their lives will be quick to perceive such is the ultimate destination of boys, who "go bummung." Those of us, who have done so ourselves, can appreciate the shock it gave the boys when they found out where they were.

Never question the motives of a virtuous act. Remember the roots of the whitest lily are imbedded in the muck. The sheriff of Licking county, Ohio, resigned, more or less voluntarily. He is the first sheriff, whose prisoner was lynched, so far as we know, that ever had the decency to retire from the office he disgraced, even when it was intimated that his retirement would be wholly in accord with prevailing public sentiment.

DR. WILEY AND THE KISS.

What's in a kiss?

We have a right to know.

The mere alliterative made by Dr. Wiley, chief of the bureau of chemistry, that "kissing is worse than cussing," is not sufficient. The scriptures say, "not that which goeth into the mouth defileth man; but that which cometh out of the mouth."

And then, so indiscriminate condemnation is unfair to the ancient and honorable practice. Dr. Wiley is not a social expert; it is not the insincerity and impossibility of enforcing its bond as the seal of mutual obligation to which he objects. He is a chemist and may speak with authority only as to such matters as come within the scope of his own department of science. He condemned the use of formaldehyde in milk, blending compounds in straight whiskey and benzoinate of soda in preservatives; what element of mischief is there in kissing to which he objects and which we may have removed without detracting from the pleasant effect of the indulgence? He must speak.

UNION RESCUE MISSION

After a week's stay at the Union Rescue mission I feel disposed to tell the public something of the work as I have observed it. Especially since I solicited donations one day, and found the people almost wholly ignorant of the real work done here. The first night I was here two young men in search of work, came in during a stormy rain. As they were without means they were given meals and lodging, and in the morning some clean shirts. These men were talked to about their spiritual condition, and after prayer promised to lead different lives. Both of them obtained good employment at once and are doing well. One other young man has been cared for over night and is seeking work. There have been two young mothers with children here seeking help. A home has been found for one child, and the mother a place to work. The other mother will be given work as soon as a home for her month-old baby is found. One woman was cared for over Sunday, and work procured for her. Three girls have found shelter and work. People have come for clothes. In one instance a man came and asked for pants that he might go to church. Mrs. Childs had to say "come again," as no donations of that kind had been sent in lately. The hospital charity ward has been visited almost every day, and fruit and flowers carried. The jail and almshouse and many homes in distress have all been visited, and good literature left. And between times these good people have been answering the telephone calls of the housekeepers in the city, needing girls for nurses or cooks. No one on the outside can possibly know of the amount of work being done. This is undoubtedly a labor of love as the people are either negligent or indifferent. The mission is in debt and as the collections get smaller instead of increasing, the work must suffer more and more. I take this means of acquainting the people of it, and do so without any solicitation, believing that if the good people of Paducah only knew they would gladly come to the rescue. I believe every home owner in the city (and many who do not own homes), could, without any sacrifice, telephone their grocer to deliver as much as a 25c package at the mission. Also many people could give bundles of clothing, which Mr. Childs would be glad to call for and distribute. This is not a work that many people enjoy, and yet many good people are willing to help. Brother Childs and wife are willing to do this work for you if you will make it possible. The religious services are good. A man and wife have found Christ this week, three have been reclaimed and quite a number have been reclaimed and prayed with. I am persuaded that none of us will regret the cups of cold water given when we see the Master face to face, but we will rather wish we had done a thousand fold more. Don't lay this paper aside and think that so many will respond that you will wait until "next time," for many others will do that too, but "phone Bro. Childs and help him in this real time of need. God has promised that, "He that giveth to the poor lendeth to the Lord, and that which he hath given he will repay again." This is a good bank note, try it.

MRS. J. A. LEE.

sued for kissing a pretty patient as she sat in his operating chair. He might enlighten us. He had seen inside her mouth and probably had cleaned her teeth. If he kissed her first, she had a right to accept the kiss as an evidence of approval and reset his charge for dental work, on the ground that she needed none. If he rushed to it heedlessly, he did so at his own peril, and the chief chemist of the nation is under no obligation to worry over the penalties nature imposes on the receivers of stolen kisses.

How can one judge these things? And, if his judgment be defunct, as is often pleaded in defense of the accusation of unlawful trespass and theft under the spell of the moon, how is one to be protected against a momentary, irresistible impulse? All men are susceptible. There is no antidote and they cannot all be confined in institutions for the restraint of the suicidally inclined? Must we muzzle all the pretty women?

Tell us, Dr. Wiley. It is up to you. For some men would rather seek the unknown physical life that lingers latent behind the Cupid's bow of a woman's mouth, than suffer the slow torment of passion's fever for attainable but unrealized bliss.

Policeman Coffey, of Mayfield, accompanied the excursion from that point to Louisville to keep order. It is the custom at Mayfield to take an officer along on excursions to keep order, but they do not always take Coffey.

In the Second district the Democratic candidate for the appellate bench is Settle. The Republican candidate probably will be Jolly. Two good names for candidates and judges. Sorry they both can't be elected.

SOUNDING A WARNING.

In our changing social conditions the percentage of true women still greatly exceeds the percentage of clean lived men; but the fact can not be without its significance, that while men are gradually being held to a higher standard of life, the restraint on women is as surely relaxing.

The Baltimore Sun raises a warning

voice, that should not go unheeded:

"Whenever a woman starts to smoke, whenever she begins to drink, even in moderation, she puts her feet in a dangerous path. To preserve purity of life and thought to save womanhood, every bit of protection, every safeguard is needed. It will be a sad day when dignity, modesty, purity of thought and language are no longer expected of woman. Laxity of expression and conduct are all too closely associated with loose morals."

SPORT THAT KILLS.

The conquest of the air promises to cost as many lives as the discovery of the North pole, for decades considered the greatest fool killer of the age. Since April ten have added their names to the roll of victims. They, in a way, have given their lives for the benefit of science; yet, most of them are of the dare-devil type, chiefly remarkable for daring and sensational achievements, and their deaths came in attempts to win prizes and large sums for breaking speed and distance records.

The Arctic sea claimed its score of

adventurers; but a Peary conquered it, not alone by boldness, but by courage, patience and studied persistence. Peary was as bold as the boldest; yet, he did not risk his life unnecessarily, and each defeat taught him a lesson. His next attempt witnessed the correction of the defect, which prevented the success of his preceding expedition. Thus for twenty years he tried and failed, and pushed on until he reached the goal.

The Wright brothers are still alive. They studied aviation and gave to the world the principle upon which successful aeroplanes are manipulated. They dared before the others flew, and their boldness is unquestioned; for they had no throngs to cheer their achievements, and no competition to stimulate them to foolhardy flights.

They risked no more than was necessary, but assumed what risks could not be avoided in achieving success, and they have warned imitators of the dangers. Particularly did they emphasize the extreme hazard of the dirigible balloon, which in two disasters has equalled the record of all the aeroplanes.

The Wright brothers and Peary are brave, level-headed pioneers in their respective fields, as much to be respected for their good sense as for their daring. No one of these, who have been killed in the aerial sports, as far as we have learned, has added a scientific fact to the sum, which the Wright brothers gave to the world.

STATE PRESS.

Naughty, Naughty, Laughing Water.

Near the shadow of the pilot oak a voluptuous stream of water rushed from the ether portion of a huge hill and, naturally, this became a watering place for the heat of the plains, a rendezvous of roving Indian bands, and a camping place of pioneer explorers.—Pilot Oak Corner, Mayfield Messenger.

Oppose Commission Plan.

The first definite action to be taken in Lexington to oppose the adoption of the commission form of government, which is to be voted on by the voters of Lexington in the November election, was made known yesterday afternoon, when it was announced that at a meeting to be held in the court house Friday night at 8 o'clock, City Clerk J. E. Cassidy, Hon. W. C. G. Hobbs and Attorney Charles F. Fennell would speak in opposition to the new plan. So far, they are the only speakers slated for the meeting, but it is expected that one or two more will be on the program before the meeting is called. The anti-commission men claim that the proposed plan for Lexington is very much unlike the Des Moines plan, and that the commission plan is not adapted to the government of Lexington. The meeting will be held in the circuit court room and every one in the city interested in the new government is requested to attend.—Lexington Herald.

The Completed Circle.

There is something amusing and at the same time pitiable in the efforts being made by the Republican press of the machine brand to show that Col. Roosevelt and President Taft are in complete accord with each other. That Col. Roosevelt and President Taft are on sincerely friendly terms no one will question. They are both high-grade men, each having shown ability, on many occasions, to recognize and applaud good qualities in others.

WHAT AVIATION COSTS.

The death toll due to aviation accidents in recent years follows:

1908.

September 17.—Lieut. Thomas E. Selfridge, U. S. A., killed in fall with Orville Wright, near Washington.

1909.

September 7.—Rosa A. Ena, Italian, killed in Rome in machine of his own invention.

September 7.—E. Lefebvre, killed in Wright machine at Justy-Sur-Orge, France.

September 22.—Capt. Louis F. Foer, killed at Boulogne, France.

December 6.—Fernandez Antonio, Spaniard, killed at Nice; falling 1,000 feet after motor exploded.

1910.

January 4.—Leon Delagrang, killed at Bordeaux, France.

April 3.—Léonel Herbert, instantly killed; falling on rocks at San Sebastian, Spain.

May 13.—Chevette Mich-John, killed at Lyons, France.

June 17.—Eugene Spoyer, killed at San Francisco.

June 18.—Rohr, killed at Berlin, Germany.

July 11.—Charles Wachter, killed at Rheims, in Antonette monoplane. Harrows De LaRoche was almost killed by a fall in her Voisin diplane at the Rheims meeting on July 8.

July 12.—Capt. Charles Rolfe, killed at Bourges mouth, France, when his aeroplane collapsed and fell 100 feet.

July 13.—Oscar Ehrlich and four companions killed in bursting of their dirigible balloon at Leichlingen, Prussia.

Nevertheless there is every indication that the men are of different temperaments.—Henderson Gleaner.

SUBMIT SAMPLES

ONLY WAY MERCHANTS CAN GET CONTRACTS.

Judge Wells of State Board of Control Admonishes Paducah Bidders.

Failure of Paducah firms to submit samples when bidding for the contracts to furnish the state institutions with provisions is explained by Hon. A. J. G. Wells, of Murray, as the reason why more contracts are not landed by Western Kentucky merchants. Judge Wells is a member of the state board of control, and is the only member of from the western part of the state and naturally desires the merchants in this vicinity to secure the contracts when possible. The board requires the bidders to submit samples before the contracts are awarded. Some of the Paducah firms have bid low, but the failure to submit samples has lost the contracts.

HUNDREDS FLEE

CASUALTIES NOT GREAT—THE DETAILS ARE MEAGER.

Munich, Bavaria, July 14.—A sharp earthquake was felt here at 9:45 o'clock this morning. The walls of several buildings were cracked.

The wave-like movement continued for three seconds, thoroughly terrifying the people, who fled from their homes and remained in the streets long after the disturbance had ceased.

The shock was felt in surrounding villages, including Grunisch. A report from Oberammergau said that the shock was noticeable there, but little damage was done.

Although no casualties have been reported here, investigation developed that the effect of the disturbance was greater than was at first thought.

The walls of several school houses cracked and the teachers and pupils ran shrieking into the streets. The municipal council ordered the school buildings closed until they could be thoroughly examined. The telephone system was badly affected.

JAP CORDIAL

RECENT RUSSO-JAP CONVENTION A PEACEFUL ONE.

Tokio, July 14.—Marquis Katsura, the premier and minister of finance, denied that the recently made convention between Japan and Russia was influenced by Secretary Knox's proposition for the neutralization of the Manchurian railways. He said: "There is not the slightest foundation for the assertions published in Europe that the Russo-Japanese convention was the outcome of the neutralization proposition. It had absolutely no connection nor was it directly or indirectly intended as an answer to the United States."

"The convention was framed, practically, long prior to any proposal affecting Japan's interest in the railroads of Manchuria. It was made solely with the purpose of affording a reinsurance of the friendly relations between Japan and Russia and of insuring peace in the far east, though at the same time with the practical object of improving traffic connections and working arrangements between the railroads."

"It is Japan's determined policy to adhere closely to all agreements and contracts with China and other nations."

ONLY WAY MERCHANTS CAN GET CONTRACTS.

Judge Wells of State Board of Control Adverses Paducah Bidders.

Failure of Paducah firms to submit samples when bidding for the contracts to furnish the state institutions with provisions is explained by Hon. A. J. G. Wells, of Murray, as the reason why more contracts are not landed by Western Kentucky merchants. Judge Wells is a member of the state board of control, and is the only member of from the western part of the state and naturally desires the merchants in this vicinity to secure the contracts when possible. The board requires the bidders to submit samples before the contracts are awarded. Some of the Paducah firms have bid low, but the failure to submit samples has lost the contracts.

HUNDREDS FLEE

CASUALTIES NOT GREAT—THE DETAILS ARE MEAGER.

Munich, Bavaria, July 14.—A sharp earthquake was felt here at 9:45 o'clock this morning. The walls of several buildings were cracked.

The wave-like movement continued for three seconds, thoroughly terrifying the people, who fled from their homes and remained in the streets long after the disturbance had ceased.

The shock was felt in surrounding villages, including Garmisch. A report from Oberammergau said that the shock was noticeable there, but little damage was done.

Although no casualties have been reported here, investigation developed that the effect of the disturbance was greater than was at first thought.

The walls of several school houses cracked and the teachers and pupils ran shrieking into the streets. The municipal council ordered the school buildings closed until they could be thoroughly examined. The telephone system was badly affected.

RECENT RUSSO-JAP CONVENTION A PEACEFUL ONE.

Tokio, July 11.—Marquis Katsuma, the premier and minister of finance, denied that the recently made convention between Japan and Russia was influenced by Secretary Knox's proposition for the neutralization of the Manchurian railways. He said: "There is not the slightest foundation for the assertions published in Europe that the Russo-Japanese convention was the outcome of the neutralization proposition. It had absolutely no connection nor was it, directly or indirectly, intended as an answer to the United States."

"The convention was framed, practically, long prior to any proposal affecting Japan's interest in the railroads of Manchuria. It was made solely with the purpose of affording a reassurance of the friendly relations between Japan and Russia and of insuring peace in the far east, though at the same time with the practical object of improving traffic connections and working arrangements between the railroads."

"It is Japan's determined policy to adhere closely to all agreements and contracts with China and other nations."

STILL CARRIES BODY OF HIS BOY

FREE SAYS HE WOULD GREATLY MISS THE MUMMY.

Fisherman, Whose Child Died at Paducah, Is Again Heard From.

DOWN NEAR GREENVILLE, MISS.

Says a special from Greenville, Miss.: A son dead five years and still a member of the family, is the remarkable condition existing in the family of A. F. Free, a fisherman, who with his family is camping on the Mississippi river about 25 miles above this city.

The story brought to this city by Capt. J. S. Sexton, an old riverman, was told to him by Free and is a most remarkable one. Free's home was formerly in Jackson county, Ala., but for many years he has followed the life of a fisherman on the Mississippi. The family consists of Free and his wife and two children, aged respectively, 10 and 3 years, and a son born 14 years ago, who died at Brookport, Ill., five years ago.

While the family was at Brookport the son died, and the father was desirous of taking the remains to the old home in Alabama, but not being financially able, and not wishing to bury his son in the far northern country, he decided to take the body with him on his way south. After having the body embalmed, Free built a box of catalpa wood, large enough to accommodate the coffin, and covered it with a waterproof covering, and after placing the precious cargo on board, started on his southern trip. Unfortunately, circumstances prevented Free from carrying out his idea for burying his son, and in his wanderings up and down the river he has always kept the body with him.

At Paducah, Ky., three years ago the authorities learned of the strange family and at an investigation, during which the coffin was opened, the body was found to be partially skeletonized. An effort was made by the authorities to have the body removed and buried, but the father objected, and as there was no law under which action could be taken in the case, he was allowed to continue on his journey. A similar attempt was made at Helena, Ark., and with the same result.

Free, in his conversation with Capt. Sexton said: "You have no idea how I would miss my son should I bury him. I feel as though he was still with us in life. I can't say how long I will keep him. We have become so accustomed to having him with us that we would miss him indeed."

Large amounts of money have been offered the father by promoters of museums to place the body on exhibition, but these have all been refused. Free and his wife claim to be members of the Baptist church, and in appearance and intelligence are far above the average river floaters.

News of Theatres

At the Star.

A complete change of program goes on at the Star theater this afternoon, new motion pictures, new illustrated songs and new vaudeville acts.

Richmond Kent and Marie Wilson, late with "The Time, Place and Girl" and "A Stubborn Cinderella," have joined hands and formed a team of Kent & Wilson and have a vehicle in the playlet called "The Wise Boy and Miss Innocence," which is a series of laugh producing fun.

Cassius and Lamar do a refined singing, yodling and character change novelty act. This act will appeal strongly to the majority of the Star patrons.

Popular Frank Long has another good song, he claims, and two reels of motion pictures, including a biography, completes the bill. Admission 10 cents; children 5 cents.

Imperial Musical Comedy Company Moved.

By special arrangement with the park management, the management of the Kentucky theater has transferred the company from Wallace park to the above named house, opening there tonight. In the beautiful opera "Said Pasha," the engagement lasting for nine days finishing the balance of this week and all of next. There is little left for us to say about this company, those who have braved the weather at the park seeing their opening bill "The College Boy," has endorsed the attraction as first-class in every respect. A company of twenty people and all singers, along with stunning wardrobe and special scenery. We are offering this attraction at popular prices, 10 and 20 cents, as seen in our ad of this paper. Among the company you will find that it is composed of some of the leads of the big musical companies during the winter season, which enables them to put on the best of light operas and musical comedy. Big bargain matinee Saturday at 2:30; 1,000 seats at 10 cents.

SUBPOENA FOR PHONE RECORDS

STATE'S ATTORNEY BURKE STARTS NEW LEAD.

Telephone Conference Between Attorney Dawson and Prominent Men Who Need Advice.

FOUND IN RECORDS WANTED.

Springfield, July 14.—It has become known that State's Attorney Burke has issued a subpoena for the long distance records of a telephone company, which would show conversations between Attorney Thomas Dawson and prominent men said to be allied with the Roger Sullivan "wing" of the Democratic party.

The appearance June 23 of Representative Johnson Lawrence, of Peoria, was the beginning of a new lead opened by the state's attorney.

Before the grand jury Lawrence said Dawson was not his attorney, but later admitted that he had been advised as to his rights by former Senator Dawson.

Burke started an investigation and found that Dawson had telephoned conferences with John W. McLaughlin, Roger Sullivan's adherent, former State Senator Benjamin Mitchell and Attorney P. H. O'Donnell, and W. S. Forrest, who appeared in the Chicago trial of Lee O'Neill, Browne, charged with bribery in connection with the election of Lorimer to the United States senate.

The names of other Sullivan Democrats were also brought into the inquiry. The records of the telephone exchange show that Dawson had conversations with Frank J. Quinn, of Peoria, a Sullivan leader, and chairman of the memorable state convention which W. J. Bryan characterized as the "train robber convention."

Dawson also talked over the telephone with State Representative Thomas Gorman, of Peoria.

The subject of these conversations was not revealed by Burke.

13 INDICTMENTS ARE RETURNED

INVESTIGATION OF INSURANCE FRAUDS.

State's Attorney Magill Says Investigation Will Continue in Other Cities.

ONE WOMAN NAMED IN LIST.

Rock Island, Ill., July 14.—Indictments against 13 persons were returned today by the county grand jury which since May 3, has been investigating the alleged fraternal insurance frauds. All the indicted are officers of the American Home Circle, or Fraternal Tribunes, or concerned in the merger of the two societies in 1908. Those indicted are: Dr. A. L. Craig, C. F. Hadfield, Max J. Frankel, of Chicago; H. A. Weld, Robert Rexdale, of Rock Island; Thomas W. Wilson, of Washington, D. C.; George W. Kennedy, Michael B. Garber, C. H. Walters, of Springfield; S. S. McIlvaine, Margaret McIlvaine, Otto L. Caldwell, of Auburn, Ill.; K. M. Witham, of Aledo, Ill.

Craig, Weld, and Wilson anti-trust indictments, appeared this afternoon and gave bond in the sum of $12,000 each. Capsules were issued for the others and will be brought in as soon as found. State's Attorney L. M. Magill states that the cases will be brought to trial as speedily as possible, probably in the September term of court.

The state's attorney, in a statement, said the investigation started here will be continued later in Chicago and Springfield, and disclosures he had uncovered were only the beginning. More than a dozen fraternal insurance societies, he said, will be involved if the lead brought to light here is followed.

See "Dr. M." Race.
Three Paducahans cheered Dr. M. this afternoon when he started in the races in Terre Haute, Ind. They were Messrs. Dow Wilcox, Oscar Hank and Charles Allcott, who are making an overland trip through Indiana and Ohio in the Buick touring car of Mr. Wilcox. They left Sunday for Evansville, where they started on the trip in the automobile, which was shipped to Evansville. They will go to Indianapolis from Terre Haute and then motor to Cincinnati and Louisville, where the trip will end. They will not attempt the trip from Louisville to Paducah in the machine. According to telegrams received from the party they have had a pleasant trip.

DOWN IN THE MINES

MINE INSPECTOR GIVES STATISTICS OF INTEREST.

Western District Makes an Excellent Showing—The Kentucky Output and Its Value.

According to the report of State Mine Inspector Norwood, the ten counties of the western district—Butler, Christian, Daviess, Henderson, Hopkins, McLean, Muhlenberg, Ohio, Union and Webster—produced more than one-half of the bituminous coal mined in 1909 in all Kentucky. The total amount mined was 10,296,115 tons, of which the western district produced 5,578,161 tons,

The total value of the output in the three Kentucky districts was $9,524,308, at the mines, an average of 94.16 cents per ton. The figures show a decrease of 5.41 cents, for all districts, compared with prices of 1908, with the average decrease in the western district of 7.82 cents; for the southeastern district, of 5.31 cents, and for the northeastern district, of 97 cents.

The figures show an increase in mining of 546,803 tons over the production of 1908, with the western district showing the greatest decrease in the amount, 582,000 tons, the increases all being in the southeastern and northeastern districts. But the western district shows the largest increase in the number of tons shipped outside the state, the percentage of shipments outside being 67.42 of the total output. In the western district, the counties making a close finish were Hopkins, with an output in 1909 of 1,847,189 tons, and Muhlenberg, with an output of 1,881,177. There are thirty-three deaths in the mines in Kentucky in the last year. Of the thirty-three, twenty were caused by "falls of top," and the Inspector rightly says that "the number of deaths by falls of top is altogether too great." He charges it mostly to an excessive use of powder in blasting, and he calls attention to the fact that, under the new laws, mine foremen can be appointed only after a strict examination. That is a good provision. In the meantime Kentucky ought to mine more coal and add thereby to the great wealth of the state.—Owensboro Messenger.

Koren produces about $1,350,000 worth of tobacco each year by primitive methods, which the Japanese are expected to improve.

Nearly every girl would want to elope if she could have a big church wedding, too.

EFFECT OF FATIGUE.

Results of Experiments Recently Made in Austrian Army.

Some interesting experiments were made recently by the Austrian military authorities with a view to testing the effect of the fatigue of a long march on the shooting of trained soldiers.

Fifty cyclists of over two years service undertook a march of sixty-five miles in eight hours, the return journey being against a strong head wind. Before and after the march they fired ten rounds at a target representing a section of 26 men, in extended order, lying down, at 500 yards.

The experiment was repeated with a section of 42 non-commissioned officers of the school of musketry before and after a 23 hours' exercise in the field, during which 33 miles were covered. This section, chiefly marksmen, made 81 hits on 21 out of 26 figures after their return. The men, though much fatigued when firing their second series of shots, made nearly as good practice as when fresh before the starting.

These results are valuable as showing that the skill of seasoned soldiers who are at the same time first rate shots, does not degenerate much with fatigue.—Army and Navy Gazette.

Aged Woman Is Initiated.

Edwards, Ind., July 13.—Mrs. Cynthia Ross, 85 years old, was one of the three candidates initiated last Saturday night by Friendship Lodge, N. 698, Daughters of Rebekah. The others were Miss Lulu Clark and Mrs. Nellie Swin. District Deputy Grand Master McElride and several members of the lodge at Terre Haute attended. Following the ceremonies a short talk was made by the aged initiate.

CHILD IS BALLY INJURED WHEN BINDER CATCHES HIM

Rockville, Ind., July 13.—Ronald Williams, the 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Williams, was terribly injured this afternoon by being caught in the sickle of a binder. Both of the lad's legs were cut and, although no bones were broken, 30 stitches were required to reduce the wounds. The boy was playing in the oats that his father was cutting and was not noticed until the binder was upon him. Physicians were summoned to attend the lad.

Probably Not.

Maternal Compliments.

At a certain church it is the pleasing custom at a marriage for the clergyman to kiss the bride after the ceremony. A young lady who was about to be married in the church did not relish the prospect and instructed her prospective husband when making arrangements to tell the clergyman that she did not wish him to kiss her. The bridegroom did as directed.

"Well, George," said the young lady when he appeared, "did you tell the clergyman that I did not wish him to kiss me?"

"Oh, yes." "And what did he say?" "He said that in that case he would charge only half the usual fee."—Tit-Bits.

CHAPTER III.

CLONEL JACQUES GAS-
PARD DESCHAMPS MO-REAU, to give him his full title, doing all things thoroughly, as befitted one of his honorable character, was not satisfied with, as he thought, disposing of Kirby's physical existence, but considered it his pleasurable duty to eventually rule whatever little reputation had survived during the other's downward career.

Kirby, presumably fatally wounded,
had been carried ashore by Buue at the next landing, and, in those days
shooting and stabbing affairs emanating from card games being only too common, but little attention had been paid to the affair. Cameo Kirby was notorious the length of the river, and such an abrupt and tragic termination of his career had not only been frequently and cheerfully predicted, but was, moreover, expected of all such members as graced his questionable profession. Indeed, for them a sober and respectable death would have been considered bad form. Among the gambling profession there existed a certain code, which in a manner served to link
those at the top, who, like Kirby and Buue, were fortune hunters, to the lowest rung in the gamblers' social ladder. This code, if so it may be termed, was an understanding to the effect that in no instance, however great the provocation, should the law be invoked. Wagers, fancied or otherwise, were to be redressed solely by the bearers thereof, the joint office of judge and executioner being vested in each separate and distinct individual.

In view of this accepted understanding, Larkin Buue had accordingly made no mention of the fact that a probable murder had been committed,
and the passengers and steamship officials dismissing it as a gamblers' quarrel, which was none of their affair, no stigma or notoriety was attached to the good Colonel Moreau, who, claiming to be an old and valued friend of Mr.
Randall, had gone to the latter's stateroom and brazenly assumed charge of the body. Buue's laconic statement was too plausibly true, for the old planter had effectively ended his life.

Again referring to Colonel Moreau's
happy faculty of doing all things well,
it was quite characteristic that to complete his revenge against Cameo Kirby he would not hesitate to assume charge of Mr. Randall's body, did not hesitate to meet the son of the man for whose death he had been directly and shamefully responsible, for young Tom Randall had ridden over to the Piquette landing in order to greet his father, while over at the old homestead all was bustle and excitement in honor of the master's homecoming.

And so, Larkin Buue waited to see the joyful and well known figure of his father march down the gangplank, waited to catch a glimpse of the familiar and weather beaten green portmanteau which the planter always carried. The momentary pause, other and numerous passengers stopped ashore, to be eagerly welcomed and claimed by their own, but John Randall was not among them. A curious and seemingly pregnant hush had succeeded the landing of the freight, and off somewhere in the darkness a child whimpered shrilly. The boy's nerves were set on edge. Perhaps his father was having a farewell talk with the captain and would come dashing out at the last moment with all his old disregard for time and place. It was time the bell was clanging the signal for backing away, for by now the landing of passengers and freight appeared to be terminated. And still no John Randall. The boy walked along the string-piece until the Texas deck came the more prominently into view, the glow
from the open windows of the port staterooms silhouetting the lean visaged pilot, absolute monarch of his realm, who now that an easy stretch of the river had been entered looked about while his cub took the wheel.

"Hello, on board the Shotwell?"
shouted young Randall, looking up at the pilothouse. "Is that you, Mr. Bi-by? This is Tom Randall. Do you know if my father is on board? We were expecting him by your boat, sir."

For reply Mr. Bi-by, usually the pattern of courtesy, offered a memorizable affirmative and turned from the window.

But young Randall had no time to nurture his quick resentment, for now,
at least, his father had come ashore,
borne on the shoulders of two rous-abouts, while the captain and officers stood with bared heads and thankfully left the unwelcome task of explaining the tragedy to the amiable and willing Colonel Moreau.

"My boy," said the latter, now laying a fatherly hand on young Randall's heaving shoulder, "although I am a stranger to you, sir, I have ventured to assume temporary control of this terrible affair, for I am a southern gentleman, as was Mr. Randall, and I feel bound to you all by the ties of sympathy and country. I was a witness, sir, to the events which preceded and prompted this outrage, and, although I am aware it is but a poor satisfaction, still it is something to know that the scoundrel who was instrumental in causing your father's death has already paid his debt with his life. My name, sir, is

Colonel Moreau, and if I can be of any further service to you all in this dark hour of tribulation pray command me, sir. As an old soldier I beg of you to meet this calamity with the fortitude of a Christian gentleman," with which admirable and pious adulation the good Colonel furnished
his handkerchief and helped himself
to a generous pinch of snuff.

"I thank you, Colonel Moreau, for all you have done," said young Randall, looking up at the huddled thing at his feet. "You—you say you witnessed my father's death?"

"Not exactly, sir, but he shot himself in his stateroom. However hard to bear, I think you should know who and what prompted his death. The scoundrel, sir, was the notorious Cameo Kirby, of whom, perhaps, you have heard."

Young Randall nodded dully, and Moreau, entering into the spirit of the tale, continued: "I formed an acquaintance, sir, with your father when he came aboard at New Orleans. He confided to every one that he had sold his sugar crop for ten thousand and had the cash with him, and he was in mighty high spirits because he was on his way back home to see his children. Foh gentlemen! As a delectable as I can I must state that he was not quite himself, and by that, sir, I mean that he had been indulging a little too freely. I don't have to tell you, sir, that there are certain characters on all
the big boats who keep a pretty sharp lookout for gentlemen with money who are in the condition your father, sir,
was in tonight, and I expect there was more than one river gambler on board who would have liked to get his hands on Mr. Randall. But the one who got him was the slickest and cleverest of the lot, the Cameo Kirby, whom I have mentioned. This rascal, sir, inveigled your father into a private stateroom, plied him with mol-luscious and won from him not only all his money and personal effects—even including a miniature of your dear mother, sir—but also a deed to his entire plantation and all his slaves, everything which he owned. I was too late to save Mr. Randall, but I knew Kirby by repute, and I was so scorchingly outraged by the whole affair that I denounced him for the low scoundrel he was. Thereupon he drew on me, but I was the quicker and shot him down like a dog. They carried him ashore, sir, at the landing below this, and the river is cleaner for his death."

"You have taken vengeance out of my hands," said young Randall unsteadily. "The coward and villain!
For a stranger, sir, the attitude which

my great pride I would have accepted
his offer of guardianship, and under his supervision, I hope, would have been
a credit to the name instead of the disgrace I am."

"Now, you quit these here postmor-
tem," remonstrated Buue good naturally, but firmly. "You don't call me
a disgrace, do you? And ain't I your old side partner? Bush, if you play
the game straight I guess there's lots
of worse ways of making a living than gambling. The sawbones said a lot of rest was coming your way, so just
turn over on the other side and forget it."

"No, I can't, Buue. Don't you realize the position in which I am placed
by Mr. Randall's death? I hold a deed
to his entire plantation, and I must sign a release without delay. What
if it should ever be thought that I entered the game in earnest, with the deliberate intention of robbing Mr.
Randall? You know my reputation,"
he added bitterly, "and how easy it is
for a dog to earn a bad name. Liking
me pen and ink at once, Larkin, if you

please, for I won't have a moment's
peace until I sign that paper."

"Dropped up on the pillow and supported by the still grumbling Buue,
he wrote the following:

"I hereby surrender the absolute possession of all the property herein described
to the child of John Randall."

EUGENE KIRBY.

"There!" he exclaimed. "Now I feel
better, and there is no chance of my
old neighbor's children being defrauded
out of their inheritance."

"You worry a heap more about them
than yourself," observed Buue, "and
there's no call for it. Even if they knew you had got this deed you're
reckoned as a dead man by everybody."

I heard from one of the boys that Moreau had skipped to Mexico, but you know how the river calls, and he'll answer sooner or later. When the fine
old bucko does return don't be fool
enough to give him another chance at
your back, for he's a painfully modest
cuss and prefers to stay in the rear.

By rights he ought to get the same
dose he gave you, and I'd do it for the asking."

"You know you wouldn't," said Kir-
by, smiling. "The moment I learn that Moreau has returned you may arrange
a meeting for us. You can leave the rest to me."

Buue nodded. "I guess there ain't
any one who could get the better of you, Gene, face to face. I ain't much of a hand at the gospel, but I'll rear
up a prayer or two for Jack Moreau's
soul."

ter from the evil reports which gossip
had spread concerning him and to others who, in their righteous ignorance,
considered all gamblers legitimate children of the devil his remarkable recovery would have been accepted merely as another proof that the evil one favors his own, that the mills of the gods grind slowly, that justice is blind
and that a scoundrel is difficult to kill,
together with many similar ancient and redoubtable maxims which ignorance and self-righteousness love to distribute on every fitting occasion.

Among possessors of the last mentioned attribute Eugene Kirby was regarded as a black sheep who, religiously avoiding the whitewash
brush, was deemed beyond redemption,
for what man worthy of the name
would have acted as had the last of the Kirbys? What if he had been but fifteen when his father died a bankrupt? What if he had been left an orphan, a pauper, with no immediate relative to care how he fared?
Wasn't the heritage of an ancient and honorable name, the knowledge that some of the oldest and best blood in all the south flowed in his veins, enough to keep him straight? Most assuredly it was. There was also no excuse for his drifting in
with wild and dissolute companions, becoming a common river gambler and rendering notorious and obnoxious a

Kirby had been kept in ignorance of Mr. Randall's suicide, but when at length he became convalescent Larkin Buue, harking back to the events of that memorable night, informed him, and the invalid, on his part, recounted the occurrences preceding Colonel Moreau's precipitation of the "honorable" combat.

"The news of Mr. Randall's death is a great shock," he added, greatly mor-eled. "He was my father's friend, Buue, and when the devil played havoc with our affairs did all in his power to be of assistance. But for

"I'LL SCARE UP A PRAYER OR TWO FOR JACK MOREAU'S SOUL."

my great pride I would have accepted
his offer of guardianship, and under his
supervision, I hope, would have been
a credit to the name instead of the
disgrace I am."

"Now, you quit these here postmor-
tem," remonstrated Buue good naturally, but firmly. "You don't call me
a disgrace, do you? And ain't I your old side partner? Bush, if you play
the game straight I guess there's lots
of worse ways of making a living than
gambling. The sawbones said a lot
of rest was coming your way, so just
turn over on the other side and for-
get it."

"No, I can't, Buue. Don't you realize the position in which I am placed
by Mr. Randall's death? I hold a deed
to his entire plantation, and I must
sign a release without delay. What
if it should ever be thought that I entered the game in earnest, with the
deliberate intention of robbing Mr.
Randall? You know my reputation,"
he added bitterly, "and how easy it is
for a dog to earn a bad name. Liking
me pen and ink at once, Larkin, if you

please, for I won't have a moment's
peace until I sign that paper."

"Dropped up on the pillow and supported by the still grumbling Buue,
he wrote the following:

"I hereby surrender the absolute possession of all the property herein described
to the child of John Randall."

EUGENE KIRBY.

"There!" he exclaimed. "Now I feel
better, and there is no chance of my
old neighbor's children being defrauded
out of their inheritance."

"You worry a heap more about them
than yourself," observed Buue, "and
there's no call for it. Even if they knew you had got this deed you're
reckoned as a dead man by everybody."

I heard from one of the boys that Mo-
reau had skipped to Mexico, but you
know how the river calls, and he'll answer sooner or later. When the fine
old bucko does return don't be fool
enough to give him another chance at
your back, for he's a painfully modest
cuss and prefers to stay in the rear.

By rights he ought to get the same
dose he gave you, and I'd do it for the
asking."

"You know you wouldn't," said Kir-
by, smiling. "The moment I learn that Moreau has returned you may arrange
a meeting for us. You can leave the
rest to me."

Buue nodded. "I guess there ain't
any one who could get the better of
you, Gene, face to face. I ain't much
of a hand at the gospel, but I'll rear
up a prayer or two for Jack Moreau's
soul."

ARIZONA PRESENTS INTERESTING CASE

AS LARGE AS JAPAN IN AREA, SMALL IN POPULATION.

Japan Has Fifty Millions, While
Two Hundred Thousand Is All
Arizona Claims.

MANY RACES LIVE THERE.

The new state of Arizona presents an interesting problem in area. It is almost as large as the Japanese empire, which contains about 50,000,000 inhabitants. In population it is very much smaller than Jefferson county—smaller by some thousands than Louisville—and a large percent of the present residents of Arizona are Mexicans. There are also a good many Indians of the Navajo, Pango, Pima, San Carlos, Mojave, Hopi, Apache, Walapai, Maricopa,
Gila, and Havasupai tribes.
There are about 1,500 Chinese and a few Japanese. There is a fine climate for persons who need the effects of a dry atmosphere, and there is plenty of room for home-seekers.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch, with the love of big figures and big spaces
that characterize the point of view beyond the Mississippi, enlarges upon the geographical dimensions of the new state in the following paragraph:

"Arizona is larger than the kingdom of Italy. It is almost as large as New York and all New England.
It is larger than New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware.
All the farms of Rhode Island could be put in one irrigated valley in Arizona. Arizona has one forest larger than the state of Indiana. The two hundred miles that the Colorado river plunges through the Grand Canyon is believed to be the world's greatest water producer."

The New York Times, with the Westerner's fondness for contemplating large masses of humanity close-packed, gleefully replies that although the state of Arizona has all of the room that is needed and a little more, it has a population that is to a great extent unfamiliar with the English language, and very sparse, while New York, with only 49,000 square miles of territory, has 9,000,000 inhabitants and plenty of room in the farming districts, for more. This is, of course, true. New York could accommodate many more hundreds of thousands—many more millions perhaps, since the island of Java, about the size of New York, has a population of 28,000,000—before a hunger-trick would have been flung. But it is by no means necessary to infer that Arizona is unfit for statehood because it is just now
a homeless empire. Give the state a chance, as a state, to prove how soon its population will begin to show signs of sturdy growth and it must be taken into consideration that the newer states nowadays are attracting an altogether desirable population from their older neighbors. There are more backwoods men east of the Mississippi. In the old farming districts, thin west of the Mississippi in the new ones.

Taste is Localized.
Taste is commonly localized in the mouth. But a lump of sugar on the tip of your tongue and you will find it distinctly sweet. Then try it half way back on the tongue and you will find it tasteless. All sweet or acidic substances, such as wine,
sugar and coffee, can be properly appreciated by the front half of the tongue, a piece of knowledge that every true connoisseur applies,
when he stops instead of taking a mouthful. With most other substances, however, the reverse is true. In these cases the tip of the tongue serves only for touching—it is the back part that tastes. The sides of the mouth, too, are quite insensible to certain substances not tasteless, but come salt or vinegar
between the teeth and the cheek
and you will find them absolutely flavorless.—London Chronicle.

EAT IN THE SHADE OF WISTARIA

SOMETHING ENTIRELY NEW IN GASTRONOMIC MYSTERIES.

Real Japanese Cafes Where the Delectable Dishes of Old Nippon Are Served.

NOVEL GOTHAM RESTAURANT

New York, July 14.—Honorable chicken is served under the shade of the wistaria to all honorable Americans, and also other delectable dishes from the fair land of Nippon, for know then that there is now a true Japanese restaurant in this city of New York.

There have been Japanese restaurants for several years, but here is a whole house on a westside street devoted to the serving of dishes cooked under the direction of a chef who once served an ambassador from the mikado to the United States. There are concessions made to the American style here and there and the waitresses have the manner of those who have known the American land. The restaurant which have existed at bazars and at Coney Island and such places have had as servitors maids in kimono and small slippers, but it is not so at the sign of the wistaria.

New York is filled with men and women who are always seeking something new in gastronomic mysteries, and as soon as the fame of the cuisine Japanese spread many went to the latest foreign restaurant. Already the place has become a rendezvous for women shoppers, some of whom live in New York, while others are of the contingent which come tunnelwise from New Jersey or from the towns of Connecticut. For them Japanese luncheon has become a diversion like the matinee or the afternoon tea in the Broadway hotels.

There is something which particularly appeals to the feminine idea of decoration in the way this mid-day repast is prepared. Some of the women say it is "cute."

The luncheon is brought in on a large lacquered tray and the first impression made is that of splendor and quantity. There are bowls and tapers and dishes of all hues and nearly all kinds except plates. First to be considered is the Japanese chop suey, which is much like the Chinese compound of meat and bamboo and celery, with more of the peppery taste and less of fat. The Chinese like pork, while the Japanese do not look upon it with special favor. The Chinese employ butter in some of their cooking; the Japanese use oil.

The constituents of the two chop sueys seem to be much the same, but there is a distinct difference in taste. Which is the better is hard indeed to say. There are chop suey connoisseurs who say neither, and that can be considered a thoroughly Oriental compound, but a little of everything which might appeal to the Occidental appetite. The sight of the gayly-colored bowl, however, in which the Japanese chop suey is served may be regarded as worth twice the money paid for the food. Rice is served in another artistic bowl.

Queer Sort of Pick.
Nesting on one side of the tray may be found a shallow dish in which is what looks like a combination of a slice of Edam cheese and a bit of Neapolitan ice cream brick tenderly laid on a strip of lettuce.

FOOD FACTS.

What an M. D. Learned.
A prominent physician down in Georgia, went through a food experience which he makes public:

"It was my own experience that first led me to advocate Grape-Nuts food and I also know from having prescribed it to convalescents and other weak patients that the food is a wonderful restorative and restorer of nerve and brain tissue, as well as muscle. It improves the digestion and sick patients always gain just as I did in strength and weight, very rapidly."

"I was in such a low state that I had to give up my work entirely and go to the mountains of this state, but two months there did not improve me. In fact I was not quite as well as when I left home. My food did not sustain me and it became plain that I must change, then I began to use Grape-Nuts and in two weeks I could walk a mile without the least fatigue and in five weeks returned to my home and practice, taking up hard work again. Since that time I have felt as well and strong as I ever did in my life."

"As a physician who seeks to help all sufferers I consider it a duty to make these facts public."

Trial 10 days on Grape-Nuts when the regular food does not seem to sustain the body will work miracles. "There's a Reason."

CAN YOU CARRY BABE?

Mothers who find it difficult to carry the children because of backache, and those who suffer any weakness of the kidneys or bladder, such as too frequent urination, inability to sleep soundly, as well as persons suffering from rheumatism, will find quick relief in a few doses of the new Barkola Globes treatment which, although on the market but a short time, is already out-selling any similar preparation. Druggists say it is giving splendid satisfaction, and the first few doses generally give much relief. "We have enough confidence in it to guarantee results or refund the money. So any person who cares to try it can do so without any risk whatever." This is the offer made by Gilbert's Drug Store.

while a quarter section of lemon keeps guard over it. The segment is very white and brilliantly streaked with crimson around the edges. It is not until the customer has tasted it that it occurs to him that he is eating fish. The slice is taken from a piscine timbale, and when it is being absorbed into the system the thought comes that it is as good as it is queer.

The luncheon includes all the tea which anyone could possibly desire, for there is, besides the large bowl dotted with tea leaves, a large pot of hot water.

As a dessert there is a pile of rice cakes. These are made from a mixture of rice flour, choice Minnesota apples, eggs, cream and sugar. Mix these ingredients together carefully and the result, in American hands, will not be anything like Japanese rice cakes, but that is what they are made of. It is not safe to press a Japanese further with regard to the composition of this subtle confection.

The luncheon is only a small feature of the full fare of a Japanese restaurant, but so far it has proved the most alluring to the woman shopper who does not care to venture too far into unknown fields in the matter of foreign cookery.

One of the most easily assimilated of the Japanese dishes is chicken in a Tokio, which is eloquent of all that is good in Nippon. The Japanese are exceedingly fond of fish and insist upon having it fresh; therefore one cannot go far wrong in ordering shiwayaki, teriyaki or kimpira, which are the equivalents respectively of fish baked, broiled or fried.

Chicken Compound.
What lamb is to the Greeks of Sixth avenue, whom none need fear when they hear it, is chicken to the Japanese. Therefore, let the stranger beneath the wistaria not hesitate when Tori Tsukunoyaki is brought forward, for it is a chicken compound which has a soul and inspires man to better things. What is better than Tori Tsukunoyaki eaten amid the fragrance of the garden or looking toward that print of the mount of snows which hangs upon the wall? Tori Inanai, something like a savory stew of chicken with vegetables is in the Y. H. C. class, and there is a pleasing savor in Oyako Donburi, composed of rice, chicken and eggs. Japanese noodles, which are light as air, may be had with the chicken, or with duck if one desires a table d'hôte he may find a combination of many of these things, with plenty of cakes and fruit and tea.

One of the excellencies of a Japanese restaurant even as transplanted to American soil, is the simplicity and artistic quality of the decorations. The furnishings are made by Japanese carpenters and the screens and the cabinet work and the trays and tables are fashioned on the same graceful and pleasing lines.

Flowers are plentifully used in the decorations. The Japanese regard the leaves and the branch as an adornment as much as the blossom itself, and those who are familiar with the effects may achieve both in plant decoration and in their glacial art will not grieve at this statement. A Japanese with a branch of mountain laurel or some such simple flower can make a decoration which will be a delight to the eye.

The Japanese restaurant, with its atmosphere of the land of the wistaria and the cherry blossom, has found its place in this cosmopolitan city.

Studying the Law.

In the old days when oral examinations were still the thing, an examining board was pummeling an applicant with questions from Blackstone, Kent and other famous legal lights.

"I didn't study anything about those fellows," complained the applicant.

"What did you study?" asked one of the judges.

"I studied the statutes of the state," he replied. "I studied them hard. Ask me a question about them and I'll show you. That is where I got all my legal knowledge."

"My young friend," said one austere judge on the examining board, "you had better be very careful, for some day the legislature might meet and repeal everything you know."—Kansas City Journal.

THE DEMOCRATS OF WISCONSIN

STATE CONVENTION OPENED IN MILWAUKEE.

Strong Talk by Kelly; Temporary Chairman Declares Principles of Party Stolen by Republicans.

THE TARIFF LAW IS RIDDLED

Milwaukee, July 14.—The Democratic state convention opened at noon with an address by Michael K. Kelly, of Fond du Lac, temporary chairman. William Wolf, of La Crosse, was permanent chairman. In his address Kelly said he could never understand why Wisconsin people should have voted to maintain a protective tariff. He declared that the lumber schedule had simply made a number of millionaires.

Mr. Kelly's Speech.

"While it will be most readily admitted that the Democratic party has been most signally unsuccessful in securing of spoils of office for its followers it cannot be denied that the party of Jefferson and Jackson has been most triumphantly successful after almost a quarter of a century of warfare, in securing the adoption of its principles, and the satisfaction of its economic theories, by its conquering political opponents and at the last national election, although defeated in the nation, the Democratic party achieved important victories in six of the northern states and today, six Democratic governors are serving the people in the former strongholds of Republicanism."

"And Democratic ideas and Democratic theories once denounced by our political opponents are now claimed as their own."

"While the Democratic party has continually suffered defeat and her champions, many of them brilliant, patriotic men, who have embellished the history of the country have fallen fighting gloriously under her flag, the principles for which the party has stood still live and will continue to live, for they are as eternal as justice itself."

"Upon the right of the government to levy tribute upon one class for the benefit of another, the Democratic party takes decisive issue with the Republican party."

"The taxing power of the government is being employed today and has been employed for the last 30 years or more through laws enacted by the Republican party for the benefit of a favored few."

"Through its tariff legislation, the Republican party has enabled certain producers to eliminate competition, to form gigantic monopolies, to control markets, to arbitrarily fix prices in defiance of the law of supply and demand, so as to compel every free side, every shop, every factory and every profession to pay tribute to the favored few."

"We have reached such a stage in our industrial and commercial developments as a result of special privilege, that the question no longer is 'will the government be able to control the corporation' but instead we have 'will the corporations be able to own and control the government?'"

"Seeing political destruction ahead, a supreme effort is being made to make country believe the retirement of Aldrich and Hale and the removal of Cannon from the Republican party to become the servant of the people. Why condemn Cannon? Why condemn Aldrich? What about the 180 congressmen who sided Mr. Cannon in his efforts to the interest? What about the Republican majority in the United States that back up Aldrich in the effort to tax privileges and what about Mr. Taft elected upon a platform pledged to a reduction of the tariff when he declared that the tariff bill now condemned and denounced universally as a fraud on the people was the best tariff bill ever framed by any party in this country."

"This is a remarkable day and age. Remarkable for many things and most remarkable of all for the kinds and varieties of Republicans that we have."

"Our platform should be progressive and not reactionary. There is a great contest going on in our land today between the forces of reaction and the forces of progress and our creed should unmistakably place our party with forces of progress."

"While the various elements of the Republican party are at meetings to read each other out of the party let it be our aim to keep our door steps swept clean and to welcome into the home of our party the dissatisfied arm of Republicans."

A Gambler's Superstitions.

Like so many incurable gamblers, Kluge is exceedingly superstitious. All his speculations were carried out in sums divisible by three, and he informed the judge that this was a temperamental necessity to him. He never spent money that he had won, as he believed that it brought luck in play, and on one occasion he and a lady companion traveled all the way from Paris to Berlin without eating rather than touch a sum of £1,000 which one of his three-hour spells at the baccarat table had brought him in.—Berlin dispatch in London Telegraph.

Why Have an Overheated Kitchen in Summer?

When the sultry days come and the coal range makes the kitchen almost unbearable and cooking a dreaded task, put out the range fire and try the newest method of cooking in hot weather—use a

New Perfection Oil Cook-stove

What a contrast! The kitchen no longer is stifling hot, the work is now done with comfort, and the housewife is not worn out with the heat.

She saves her strength, keeps her health and is better able to enjoy the summer.

The New Perfection does everything that any other stove can do—all the family cooking, baking, washing and ironing. No smoke, no dust, no odor. Heat is applied directly and not wasted. A turn, and the flame is out.

The New Perfection stove has a Cabinet Top with shelf for keeping plates and food hot, drop shelves for the coffee pot or saucepans, and nicked towel racks.

It has long turquoise-blue enamel chimneys. The nickel finish, with the bright blue of the chimneys, makes the stove very attractive and invites cleanliness. Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners; the 2 and 3 burner stoves can be had with or without Cabinet.

Ready-to-Wear Department Second Floor---Take Elevator

Our Ladies' Ready-to-Wear Department has become one of the most important factors of our business and, therefore, warrants a great deal of our attention. We make a special effort to keep abreast with the foremost eastern styles and during the season receive weekly shipments of all that is new, as they appear in the east, and by so doing place before our customers styles as advanced and well selected as you would be able to obtain in any of the larger cities. Not wishing to carry any of these goods over for another season, we now offer you an unrestricted choice of any of these handsome garments at but a fraction of their original cost.
